Android Application Development – Rich App Development Platform for Smartphone Users

Android is a bunch of software that includes operating system which includes programs and data, middleware and basic apps for the mobile phones. Android is not just Android mobile but it is Google Android. Thus, Android app development is the magnificent and revolutionary platform provided by Google.

Android is Linux based mobile operating system including Java library. Android is the best mobile platform to run simple as well as complicated applications. So, Android development platform is the favorable source among Android phone users and Android lovers. Android operating system is divided into four Android 1.5, Android 1.6, Android 2.0, 2.1 and 2.2. Android app market is an open market for Android app developer for quick publication of third party applications.

After a launch of Android in the market, it has emerged a competition between mobile companies. Therefore, the competition between mobile app development companies has been increasing.

Google Android app development is today's best platform, if anyone want to develop an applications for their mobile devices. Android is the best platform for smartphone users to create their needed apps. There are many free applications provided by Android in its application library.

Various offshore Android development companies are trying to play their role in delivering best Android app for their clients. Normally, Android users demand for the following applications:

- Business and finance application
- Game and fun application
- Social Networking application
- Entertainment application
- Health and fitness application
- Lifestyle application
- Travel and tourism application
- Internet application
- Security application
- Third-party application

Professional Android application development is very demanding service among the smartphone users to get their required and valuable Android applications. If you are looking for the best mobile apps Development Company or Android app development service provider then there are many companies in the market but you have to choose the best from them. So, if you want the best then search for Mobile Development Experts or Contact us for your valuable projects with some basic information.

Mobile Development Experts is well-known and trusted name in the Android market among the Android apps user. MDE has the professional, talented and experienced Android developer who can build small business applications as well as large enterprise level applications (according to the client's requirements and needs). MDE charges very affordable cost for its highly qualitative and industry best offshore Android development and Android app development services.